From the Author

When you master your mind, your master your life and your world.

Today's cutting edge quantum science and mastery wisdom traditions agree: the dynamics of mind are fundamental to everything that we experience, create and enjoy. This is not about the psychology of mind or behavioral conditioning. This is about the 5 natural faculties of mind we didn't learn about in school, and the creative nature of our own habits of thinking and awareness. I wrote Do You QuantumThink? in a conversational style to give all of us a way to instantly, easily and entertainingly update our knowledge and our perspective - to live a masterful life.

My partner and husband, Alan Collins and I have been presenting QuantumThink® to executives and entrepreneurs, celebrities and politicians, artists, students and parents for more than 15 years. When people QuantumThink, they gain great clarity about the changing world we're living in now and their place in it. The results are always remarkable and outstanding. I wrote the book to make it available to everyone who desires to live an enchanted life. I would love to hear about your experience as you read. Enjoy!

From the Inside Flap

Entertaining, captivating, clarifying ...

Until now the idea thought creates reality has been given little attention outside of the so-called "new thought" movement, dismissed as wishful thinking and having little to do with concrete reality. Sages and spiritual masters have taught, as you think, so you become. But it is only now that the real scientific evidence for this has emerged.

The implications of this growing awareness help to form the foundation of the QuantumThink message. Though science may infer, the undeniable real evidence is your own experience. Do You QuantumThink? offers -- not another "how-to" book -- but an actual methodology that reveals its message to you, by the validity of your own experience.
